EDITORIAL. H. S. McNICOL.

Hurrah for Foraker!

It is interesting to observe how small a hole a large President can crawl out at "Public office is a public trust," and a very large majority of the public don't want to trust G. Cleveland as an officer

Cleveland followed the example of the original owners of those Confederate flags. When the fire got too hot, he surrendered.

Foraker is not a candidate for the Presidency, but there are less likely dark horses in the Republican President ial stables than Our Ben.

Our Governor is a man of decided views. The promptness of his action in telegraphing to the President his indignation at the outrage of sending back the captured Rebel flags has called down upon him floods of congratulation from all over the country.

Will the Committee on Privileges of the Highland Agricultural Society allow the same number of swindling schemes to be operated on the fair grounds this year as formerly? Does the Board want to share in the profits of these fakirs by licensing them to fleece the suckers and cheat the farmers who come to attend one of the best fairs in the State?

The lynching of the negro Betters, at Jamestown, adds another chapter to the records of Ohio's disgraces. No matter how grave the character of the crime, the men who violate the law by lynching a criminal are just as culpable under the law as he. This sort of thing is becoming too frequent lately. The author-Ities should hunt down and prosecute these criminals just as vigorously as the first offender.

It is impossible to maintain the labor societies as secret orders when a labor next is assected by the first offender.

Mr. George Rhoads has finished painting the school house in district No. 9, which adds much to its appearance.

Mr. Wade Turner of Marshall party is organized. In the nature of things the methods of the party will be adopted by the societies, thus destroying their secret sessions and merging them.

muon to its appearance.

Mr. Wade Turner, of Marshall township, has been employed to teach the school in district No. 9 the coming winter.

Mr. James Butler, who has been attending school at Delaware, Ohio, for several months past, returned home Saturady. into the party. A political party and a secret order are widely at variance in their ways of handling public questions and one must take the precedence to the ultimate destruction of the other.

Blanchester and Chillicothe both tele graphed to the New York World office Friday night that they had seen the baland 9:30, respectively, and stated that the balloon was then passing. On the contrary the ballon descended at Centralla, Illinois, forty miles from St. Louis, at 8:15. When the residents of a town get in such a condition as that, it is time for the Council to pass a prohibitory ordinance.

A gentleman for the contract of the contract of the council to pass a prohibitory ordinance.

A gentleman from Dodson township in the Prohibition convention last Wednesday while heaping abuse upon the Dow law, unintentionally furnished ne evidence concerning the salutary effect of the workings of that law. He narrated Lynchburg's experience with a band of colored bums from Hillsboro who went down and tried to drink up who went down and tried to drink up the products of Freiberg & Workum's distillery. After painting Lynchburg and the adjacent section of Dodson township the most approved carmine hue they boarded the train and returned to this place. Then Lynchburg's saleonists held a quiet consultation and decided not to sell the fiery liquid to visiting colored gentlemen lest the good citizens there should band together and destroy their business. And yet they tell us that Dow law is a 3-ply abemination!

Third Party Prohibitionists, imagining that the mighty rumbling they hear is somehow a result of their frantic kicking, are getting themselves in trim to do the champion high-kick act of the season. They surmise that the temperance itation resulting from the Dow law is the fruitage of their ardent horn-blowing, the fruitage of their ardent horn-blowing, and so they are tuning up that mellow baseo. Republicans who have fallen over the third party stumbling-block may return and stand erect in the old ranks. The laurels which third party ranters are trying to steal belong to Republicans, and our reward is in waiting at the coming election. Probabilities indicate that the third party vote will be lighter this fall than ever before. The sele purpose for which that party was organised is steadily flitting away, and will leave nothing but its noisy devotees acreaming over the vacancy.

Miss Ella Behymer has resigned her position as teacher in the intermediate department of our school and will accept a position in the schools at Washington. Miss Behymer has been teaching here for several years and has been a faithful and efficient teacher. She will be missed in the community as well as in the school, and all regret her departure very much. There are several applicants for the position, but as yet the board have not hired any one.

Adams county, attended the wedding of her sister at Sinking Spring last week.

Mr. J. C. Suiter to lighten the burdens of earthly cares was united in wedlock with Miss Eva Countryman on the 15th by Squire Gall, of Marshall. May they glide smoothly o'er the matrimonial sea.

Devore and Beatty, the latter day saint ministers, not being very successful in their late meetings in Brushoreek, have departed for new fields of labor where they will expound their epitome of faith. We understand they have gone to Loudon, Adams county.

Miss Lizzie Smith, of Mount Healthy, Hamil-ton county, is visiting relatives here.

Mesers. Jacob Ridings and G. W. Hawk spent a day at Tater Turner's fish ponds near Martinsville last week. They report fish Mack Florence, a young man living with Commissioner Foust, is very low with some internal trouble at this writing. There is but ittle hope of his recovery.

We had a pleasant visit from T. M. Shockey and wife, of Mount Oreb, a few days ago. Tom is president of the gas company at that place. He thinks the gas is there and all they need is the money to make the hole.

The Clay township Sunday School Reunion held its second meeting for 'he year at Euford on last Sabbath. The next meeting will take place at Toll's school house in four weeks from last Sabbath at 2 o'clock p. m.

FAIRFAX.

GREENFIELD.

June 20th, 1867.

Miss Lulu T. D. Vestal, of Midland City, who has been attending Normal School at this place, is now visiting friends and relatives near Centerfield, this county.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Heidingsfield attended the Commencement of Hughes' High School held last Thursday ovening at Music Hall in Cincin-nati. Their son Bennie was one of the gradnates.

Annt Betsy Jennings, one of Greenfield's oldest and most highly respected ladies, died at her home on East Church street last Thursday morning, aged ninety-three years. The funeral services took place from the Baptist Church last Friday.

Grover Clevaland's little electioneering scheme in wanting to return the rebel battle flags, rather raised the old war spirit in the old soldiers in this section. We have heard Democrate say that Cleveland has had all the support from them that he would ever get, and that any man who would disgrace the honor of his country in that style, needed sitting down upon.

of his country in that style, needed sitting down upon.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Rociety meeting held at the M. E. Church last Sunday evening was very entertaining and instructive. The essays and letters read by the members were interesting and full of good missionary news. The program from beginning to end was well chosen and successfully carried out, and the music by the choir was highly appreciated by the large audience. The collection was large.

and the music by the large audience. The collection was large.

Our old friend and fellow-townsman, Jake Foulk, got into trouble last week, and for his misconduct was sent to the stonepile. Jake seems to have been a little short in finances. He made a visit to old Mrs. Blackburn on East Main street, and during his stay his eyes lit on a pockethook lying upon the table, and at the first opportunity he let his fingers freeze to it, and of course when he put his hand in his pocket the book went along. Jake did not steal it on purpose, but just took it for the cash that was in it. The pocketbook belonged to Mr. Milholland, and when the loss was reported to him and Jacob being the only person that had been in the house, he was hunted up and searched and the money found, and Jacob sent up for his clever trick.

Our town has escaped from the night work sent up for his clever trick.

Our town has escaped from the night work of burglars for a year or more past, until last Wednesday morning, when some two or three business houses were broken into. The grocery of J. M. Rizer was opened but nothing of much consequence was stolen. The boot and shoe store of Meyers & Son, and Parrett & Son's drug store were also broken open but nothing stolen to amount to much at the drug store; the most taken seems to be liquors. The jewelry store of McCommon was also stempted, but from some cause or other they did not gain an entrance. Money was what the thieves were after, but they did not get much, as our business men never leave much in the till after business hours. The amount stolen in all will probably reach forty or fifty dollars.

SINKING SPRING.

June 20th, 1887. The Grand Army are busy drilling for the Fourth of July

The father of Rev. G. P. Bethel is visiting Born to Mr. and Mrs Joseph T. Yankie, on Saturday morning last, a fine son. After a protracted visit to friends Mrs. Lilian Bethel is again at home, in improved health.
